

Questions:

1. While programming, I came across a function named `.isAlpha()`. What does the function do?
2. Is it good practice to use infinite loops and terminate them using some condition instead of using the standard way of creating a variable and using it to control the loop?